No Flag but the old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the Stars of a Union unbroken and true;
A[illegible] and defend it, ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the Union [illegible] shall save.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 30, 1864.

THE PEOPLE AND THE REBELLION.—One of the most gratifying evidences of the success of the Union party, and the disposition on the part of the American people to support the Administration of Mr. Lincoln and his course in prosecution of the war, is found in the fact that Union gains have placed twenty-five more friends of the Administration in the coming Congress than were in the last. S. S. Cox is defeated in Ohio, Pendleton is succeeded by a Union man, and Fernando Wood failed in New York City.

The people have spoken emphatically, and their dispassionate, unprejudiced verdict will give a great influence to nerve our armies to battle more enthusiastically and successfully for the cause, and our rulers to repose more confidence in the fidelity of the people, and in the ultimate success of the National arms.

Sherman is marching through the heart of the Confederacy, destroying its public works, devastating fertile fields, and teaching the Georgians and South Carolinians the lesson—the terrible lesson—that civil war should have been their last resort, from real aggressions, and never assumed as the arbiter of their fate upon the flimsy pretexts so ably exposed by their own statesmen, when the ordinance of secession was under discussion in Georgia and Alabama. The words of A. H. Stephens may well be remembered by Georgians now, when the picture of civil war he once so forcibly drew is enacted in their midst, and they may remember, too, the facts stated by him at the same time, and his assertion that the Government had given them no cause to complain, and that the only complaint they had to make was but of the conduct of an irresponsible and fanatical few of the Northern people. As they find their slaves wrested from them by the hand of the invader, they may well compare their insecurity with the time when, as stated by Mr. Stevens, the General Government enacted every law they demanded, and enforced those laws, by all the power at its command, to secure to them their rights and property under the Constitution, perfect and unimpaired.

"Whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad," and if the saying needed any other and greater verification since it originated among the ancients, its significance and truth is fully confirmed in the history of slavery in the United States. The time came when slavery must cease, and it has committed self-destruction. Guaranteed by constitutional provisions, protected by Legislative enactments, held as blameless by the dominant party that was potential in the land, it seemed secure and perpetual.

It only remained for it to become intolerant, for it to ask more than friends could grant, and thereby dissolve the Democratic party, and finally, with suicidal hand, to attempt the destruction of our Government, and its madness was complete. The nation entertains no thought of cessation of the war until the rebellion succumbs. The fate of slavery is sealed, and the issue of the conflict no longer doubtful.

RECRUITING.—We call the attention of the citizens of our State generally, and of Multnomah county in particular, to a few facts concerning enlistments needed to fill up the new regiment asked of us.

Polk county has more than completed its quota, thanks to the people of that county and their disinterested liberality; also to the efforts of Captain Lafollet. This small county raised the sum of twelve hundred dollars for an extra bounty, being thirty dollars cash offered each of their quota.

Clackamas county offers an inducement to volunteers, that induces persons to go from here to Clackamas to enlist.

Cannot the counties and the citizens of the State generally, and Portland in particular, take this matter effectively in hand, and see that sufficient means are raised to induce the speedy enlistment of all needed to fill up the respective quotas of the different counties?

THE CHRISTIAN COMMISSION.—Mr. Mingins, Agent of the Christian Commission, is traveling this way from California overland, and delivering addresses at the principal towns upon the route. He is expected to arrive here about Saturday next, and we anticipate great pleasure in hearing him, as our exchanges announce that he is one of the most eloquent speakers they have ever listened to in California. The cause he advocates is one that appeals warmly to the most benevolent impulses of our nature.

We trust he will be well received here, and that his efforts for the cause will add to the attractions of the Fair the ladies of Portland are intending to hold, the proceeds of which are intended for the same good cause.

EUGENE REVIEW AND THE MINT.—The Review is facetious, very: thinks he has no business in the Mint question and we think so too. But the public are no doubt interested in knowing that the memorial passed at the late session, asking for the Mint to be located at Portland received the almost unanimous support of all political parties, and was only opposed by the Salem portion of Wasco and Astoria. A "fellow feeling" makes the Review very "kind" towards the Mountaineer, though it is only as a Democratic friend of ours says, "half a Democratic paper." Birds of a feather, &c.; natural, very.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CODE.—We publish to-day the Act amending the Code in certain particulars. A most important act to the legal fraternity, as well as the citizens generally.

The Late Fire at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Nov. [illegible], 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

We trust your kindness will allow us a few lines in the columns of your paper to express our sincere thanks to the citizens of Vancouver, and also to the officers and men of the military post and Quartermaster's department, for their promptness and exertions in mastering the fiery calamity which has destroyed in part, and threatened to completely lay waste one of our Institutions known as the Washington Territory Insane Asylum.

Our thanks are particularly proffered to Brigadier General Alvord, who at the first sound of the bugle, ordered out his whole command, to Captains Hooper and C. B. Ho[illegible], who sent the Government water-tank with a large supply of water; and to Mr. P. Buckley, who first discovered the fire and narrowly escaped with his life by endeavoring to save the two unfortunate children whom the merciless flames [illegible] us.

SISTERS OF CHARITY.

MURDER OF UNION MEN IN CALIFORNIA ON ELECTION DAY.—The Stockton Independent gives the following account of murders committed by McClellan men in Tulare county, Cal., on the evening of the late election. We congratulate ourselves that such ruffians naturally have no affinity with the Union party:

On the evening after the election, Mason and McHenry went over to Dutch Charley's, a man with whom they had a spite, and killed him. From this place they went to Hawthorn's, knocked at the stable, where there were men sleeping, and after drawing the men, robbed them of their pistols, went to the house, and murdered Hawthorn. They then immediately went to the stable, telling the men what they had done, and also that they intended to kill all the Republicans they could. They took Hawthorn's switch, double-barreled shot gun, and two horses from the stable. From Hawthorn's they proceeded to the house of Robinson. After obtaining a drink of water, they asked Mrs. Robinson where her husband was. She replied that he had not yet come home from the election, but that a wagon was coming up the road, and she thought that was him. They set out for the wagon. Mason first came up. He accosted Robinson with—"I am told that you said there was not a decent woman in the South. Did you say so?" "No, I did not," replied Robinson. "You are a liar, and I am going to kill you," said Mason. Robinson then jumped for him. Mason snapped his gun, which missed fire, and then fired with the other barrel, breaking his victim's shoulder and arm. Robinson then ran, but was pursued by McHenry, who shot him twice, first in the hand, and then in the back of the head, killing him. The murderers then told the man who was in the wagon with Robinson, that he might go on to the house and tell who killed Robinson, and moreover, what they did it for. Mason also told him that he was the man who had killed two soldiers at Fort Tejon and one at Camp Babbitt, and that Mason was not his real name; that he was after Republicans, and intended to kill all he could. The murderers were well armed, having each a double-barreled shot gun and two six-shooters. They did not appear to be influenced by motives of plunder, but solely by malice against the Republicans. They have both for several months been around Gilroy, and on Wednesday last were seen near North San Juan. It is to be hoped they will not long escape their just deserts.

CONCUSSION OF HEAVY GUNS.—Every country boy who has ever been to a "general training," as the annual muster of village militia is called, has remarked how the grass is blown down by the discharge of the 6-pounder gun usually fired on such occasions. Similar effects take place every time a gun is fired, but they are not always so apparent. The discharge puts a column of air in motion from the muzzle outward, which sweeps forward with terrible force. The original Monitor when she engaged the Merrimac in Hampton Roads, was universally condemned for not following the repulsed vessel to its lair, and the correct reason for the failure has never been given until the publication of this article.

The Monitor did not follow the Merrimac because she was not in a condition to do so, for this reason: The pilot house, it will be remembered, was immediately forward, and when the guns were fired in line with the keel the shot passed over it. The top of the pilot-house was a solid, wrought plate, 3 feet 6 inches wide, by 5 feet long, and 3 inches thick. This top was lifted bodily up and displaced by the discharge of the 11-inch guns fired from the Monitor's turrets, so that in sheering off to repair this damage the Monitor reluctantly allowed the rebel vessel to escape. The guns could not afterwards be fired except at an angle of 30 degrees with the keel, so great was the effect of the discharge upon the vessel itself and upon the inmates of the pilot house through the sight holes. For this reason, and some others, the pilot-house on the new monitors are placed over the turrets and the hatches which cover the openings in the deck are all strongly fastened with heavy bolts.—Scientific American.

REVOLUTIONS NEVER GO BACKWARDS.—The man who expects this war to terminate and leave the Government of the United States where it found it, gives the future little thought. Our country has only been a republic in name. The people are now making a republic in reality. The "irrepressible conflict" has been raging since 1831, and after thirty odd years of wrangling, has culminated in war—and war for the supremacy of freedom or slavery. A Government to be harmonious cannot foster antagonistic principles. Slave and free labor are as antipodal and irreconcilable under one Government as Monarchy and Republicanism under one Constitution. The South contends for an Oligarchy in one half the territory of the United States when she insists that half shall be slave, and the inauguration of this war was only the culminating point where the two principles of Government came in open conflict—neither disposed to yield and give supremacy to the other. Freedom, under the general workings and progress of "the Union as it was," was advancing slowly but surely towards engulphing slavery. Had peace continued in our land another quarter of a century, the hateful anti-republican institution would have been destroyed by the popular will, and the same end been effected through reason, justice and humanity, enforced by the "tyrannical majority," as now purchased by the blood of thousands.—Marysville Appeal.

A SENTIMENT WORTHY OF A HERO.—Peter Donahue relates to us an incident connected with the death of our respected townsman, John P. Buckley, which, for the sake of the example, and for the honor of a truly loyal man's memory, we think should be made public. On the afternoon of the accident which cost a most valuable life, Donahue rode up to the residence of Buckley, and, on entering the house, was shocked to hear that the injured foot had been already amputated. Entering the room in which the surgeons were dressing the mutilated limb, Donahue advanced to the side of his suffering friend, and remarked, as he pressed his hand, with deep emotion, "This is terrible!" The sufferer, looking up with a calm smile, said: "Yes, this is terrible for my family; but how much worse off are those of many a poor fellow who has laid down his life, or lost an arm, or a whole leg, fighting for his country and the Union! I lost my limb in the launching of a vessel I intended to defend my country and sustain a glorious cause; it could not be helped and I have not a word of complaint to make. Kiss me, old friend!" and drawing Donahue's head down to his pillow, he kissed him with lips moist with the sweat of mortal agony.—S. F. Flag.

VALUABLE PRESENT.—The editor of the San Francisco Flag has received the present of a cane from Robert Gardiner, Esq., late delegate to the Convention. The stick was cut on the battle-field of Gettysburg, at the foot of Round Top Hill, and near the rebel "slaughter-pen," as General Lee designated it in his report to the rebel Secretary of War. It was on the spot where Longstreet, with the bulk of the rebel army, fought so long and desperately, trying to dislodge Sykes, Reynolds, and the Pennsylvania reserves, who held possession of the hill. The head of the cane was taken from the mountings of a rebel saddle, and the ferrule from the end of a rebel scabbard. The cane will be sold for the benefit of the Sanitary Fund, the editor reserving the privilege of bidding it in.

SUGGESTIVE.—The election returns from Fort Churchill are somewhat suggestive, and seem to verify the remark of a correspondent in the Army of the Potomac, that "a majority for McClellan could always be polled in the guard-house, but never in the hospital." There were fifty-four votes cast by the soldiers at Fort Churchill on the 8th. Of this number, Lincoln received forty-nine and McClellan five. Every McClellan ballot was cast by men under arrest and in the guard-house. This little circumstance, in connection with the prevailing character of McClellan's supporters elsewhere, may signify nothing; but it does not look to us like an accident.—[illegible]

GAME.—Last Monday Nick Oliver brought to town thirteen deer, some of which weighed over [illegible] pounds when dressed. Nick lives at the mouth of Gate Creek on the McKenzie, about 30 miles east of here, and some twelve or fifteen miles above the settlement, and in the midst of the [illegible] of the forest. The thirteen deer were the result of only one day's hunting.—State Journal.

BANNER COUNTY.—Sacramento claims to be the Union banner county in the State; Nevada the banner city—and we ascribe to our new sister, Nevada, the honor of being the Union banner State of the Pacific coast. Kansas is the Union banner State of the Republic, giving Lincoln twenty thousand votes, and McClellan one thousand five hundred.—Red Bluff [illegible].

The Heroic Defense of Allatoona.

[From Correspondence of the New York Times.]

IN THE FIELD, IN GEORGIA, Oct. 9th.—The defense of Allatoona will be celebrated in the history of the war as one of the bravest, noblest struggles in all the record. That this successful defense may be better understood let me go back a few days in the series of events commencing with the movements of Hood across the Chattahoochee, on Sunday, 2d inst.

General Sherman knew the operations upon the following day; but not feeling fully satisfied of its nature, and having [illegible] the freshet, which nearly filled the banks of the Chattahoochee, both its bridges, he delayed moving his armies until Tuesday, when three pontoon bridges were laid across, over which the armies of the Cumberland, Ohio, and Tennessee were crossed and marched toward Marietta, and south of that place. Beyond Marietta there had been no telegraph communication since Sunday, and the news had been received from Gen. Thomas, who was sent to the north the week previous, with a strong force, to watch, and if possible to catch Forrest, who persisted in destroying a portion threatening the Nashville and Chattanooga road. At the same time, Gen. Corse, commanding the Fourth Division of the Fifteenth Corps, was sent to Rome with instructions covering several contingencies.

SHERMAN'S MOVEMENTS.

At the first intimation of the direction taken by Hood, which was ascertained to be Dallas, Sherman sent a message to Corse, by signals to Allatoona from Kenesaw Mountain, that he was to move at once with all his troops to Atlanta. Although Atlanta was situated at a re-entering angle in our rear, and not so likely to be attacked as Rome, on the extreme flank, yet its position upon the line of the road, which at this point passes through a gap in the mountain range, made it of extreme importance. But this was not all. Long ago Sherman anticipated that he might yet be obliged to defend and maintain his hold of Atlanta south of the Chattahoochee.

So long as the enemy were in possession of Atlanta, Sherman's line of communication was comparatively secure; but when Atlanta fell into our hands, there was nothing to prevent the movement of Hood which has now been made. In this event, it would be necessary for us to have a strong force in Atlanta and to move back in order to protect our line of communication. Our friends at the North will already have seen the wisdom of the order of Sherman compelling the citizens to remove from Atlanta, and refusing to permit civilians to come to that city. The enforcement of these orders left us only our soldiers to provide for.

VALUE OF ALLATOONA.

In view of the future possibilities, there was concentrated a million and a half of rations at Allatoona. It now appears that some women in the place learned this, and gave information to the enemy. So Gen. Hood sends from Dallas French's division of Stewart's corps, to surprise and capture the place. Here was a prize of priceless value to Hood, with but seven days' rations, and encamped in a barren country. If he could have occupied Allatoona with 10,000 men, such was the strength of the position he could have held ten times his force at bay so long as the supplies held out. This might have necessitated the evacuation of Atlanta, and the costly fruit of the noblest campaign of this war, if not of all time, would have been wrested from our grasp.

But the same master mind held the threads of woof and warp in his hands. Tuesday saw three columns of troops, with fifteen days' rations at their back, moving in converging lines, through the thick woods, across swollen streams, surmounting rocky ridges, and all directed toward Dallas. Wednesday morning found Stanley, with the Fourth Corps, resting his right upon Little Kenesaw, while Cox, with the army of the Ohio, upon arriving at Marietta, was to be moved around Kenesaw toward Allatoona. Stanley was pushed forward amidst the pelting rain to Pine Mountain, which is situated in the centre of a right angle triangle, Kenesaw, Lost Mountain, (held by the rebels) and Allatoona being the three points.

SHERMAN IN THE FIELD.

About noon General Sherman ascended Kenesaw. In the movements of large armies in a broken country like this, the General commanding necessarily cannot direct personally the disposition of each body of troops. It will be found often that, even with the keenest foresight and most perfect knowledge, one line will overlap or fall far short of another; when the moment of battle arrives, a division which should be at a critical point will be in the rear, and golden opportunities escape or battles are lost. This campaign has witnessed many incidents of this kind, but here was one of the most sublime spectacles this world has ever seen; here stood the commanding General on the mountain top, signaling each army as it advanced, and there were no mishaps. From Pine Mountain to the south and east there stretched one continued line of battle. Meanwhile, the Army of the Ohio, which had been the last to cross the river, had not yet reached Marietta.

It was past noon, and the fog, devoured by the sun's warm rays, disappeared from the forests and fields, revealing the Allatoona Mountains in the distance. Then for the first time were seen puffs of white smoke from one and another fort which defended the pass and the town. Gradually the fire slackened and ceased in one and another, until it was confined to a single redoubt which covered the whole line of defense. Finally that ceased, followed by a column of black smoke rising to the left, where the bridge crossing Pumpkin Vine creek was known to be.

THE BATTLE.

In agony of doubt, the signal station can be seen through the telescope, but no answer comes to the constant call from Kenesaw. "If Corse is there he will hold to the last," says the General; "I know the man." And, thank Heaven, Corse was there. He had received the signal message, and without a moment's delay had placed nine hundred men on board the cars and reached Allatoona before the attack. When summoned by French to surrender "in five minutes in order to save unnecessary effusion of blood," he replied: "I shall not surrender, and you can commence the unnecessary effusion of blood whenever you please;" and so the battle opened at eight in the morning and waged hotly until two in the afternoon. Driven from one fort to another, until they reached their last defense, the brave garrison still kept the flag flying. Corse was shot through the cheek bone, cutting off his ear, in the early part of the action. His men fought with fearful desperation. At one point fronting the fort the rebels charged frequently with the bayonet, and were met with the bayonet.

The enemy's artillery played into the fort with terrible effect, but our brave soldiers replied with shot and shell until the rebels were driven back with great loss. Beaten and disheartened, they had information of the arrival of two companies of infantry, sent forward the day before by Sherman from the garrison at Marietta, and fearing the flank movement of the head of Stanley's column, then appearing at Pine Mountain, they withdrew towards Dallas, leaving in our hands one hundred and fifty dead on the field, five hundred prisoners, four hundred stand of arms, and three colors. The same night our cavalry brought in Brigadier-General Young, taken prisoner in their retreat. He reports that General [illegible] was killed and General Cockrill wounded, and that several Colonels were killed and wounded.

We lost some 400 killed, wounded and prisoners, out of a force of 1,700 men, consisting of infantry and one 6-gun battery. It was a hard fought battle, with severe loss on both sides. In an intrenchment opposite our main fort, after the fight, there was found among the dead both Union and rebel soldiers with bayonets transfixed in each other. The town was destroyed by shot and shell. All the cavalry and artillery horses were killed, but the valuable stores were saved, and the fort and pass were held.

The regiments engaged were the Fourth Minnesota, Eighteenth Wisconsin, Ninety-third, Ninth and Fiftieth Illinois, Thirty-ninth Iowa, and Twelfth Wisconsin Battery.

All honor to the dead, who died a glorious death, conscious that liberty and their country owes them an eternal debt of gratitude. Brave General Corse! Brave soldiers! who survive the battle, to receive from their fellow men the laurel wreath of fame.

WILLAMETTE THEATRE.—The play of "the Wife's Secret, given last night, at Willamette Theatre, is a fine one—well written, and its moral is good. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a very respectable audience turned out to witness the play. To-night is set apart as the first benefit of Mrs. Hayne. A fact sufficient in itself to fill the house; but added to this is the attraction at the request of many of our citizens, of "As You Like It," Shakspeare's brilliant comedy, and one of the most exquisite productions of his genius, to which Mrs. Hayne's refined and finished style is most adapted. It is hardly needful to bespeak a house, as there will doubtless be a fitting tribute to one whom for her many womanly qualities all combine to honor.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The jury yesterday brought in a verdict for $2,000 damages against R. S. Perkins in the suit of Wm. Allman, for injuries inflicted upon the person of plaintiff, by the use of a pistol in the hands of defendant. In the cause of the State vs. Joseph Knott, indictment for assault with intent to commit murder, defendant plead guilty of assault, and was fined $200 and costs of prosecution, to stand committed until paid. The defendant in the cause of the State vs. Henry Wagner, indictment for suffering a gambling device to be set up in his saloon, plead guilty, and was fined $500 and costs of prosecution, to stand committed until paid. The cause of Peter Erbesting vs. J. O. Vanbergen, submitted to jury.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the case of the State vs. James Dobson, defendant was held to bail in the sum of $300, in default of which he was committed to jail. In the case of the State vs. William Follis, on charge of larceny, defendant was discharged. He was afterwards arrested for desertion, and conveyed to Fort Vancouver. In the case of the State vs. Charles Porter, arraigned for petit larceny, defendant was found guilty, and sentenced to three months imprisonment in the county jail. For violation of city ordinances A. J. Murphy was fined $5 and costs, paid; James Dobson, fined $10, and costs, in default committed to jail.

CHRISTIAN COMMISSION.—Rev. G. J. Mingins, Agent of the Christian Commission, is on his way to this city from California, and is expected to arrive on Saturday evening. The amount collected at the Congregational church on Thanksgiving day, for the benefit of the Commission was $2[illegible] 55 coin, $7 currency. A meeting of the committee is called for this evening at the vestry of the Congregational church. We will be thankful to the various congregations, hereafter, if they will furnish us with reports of contributions to the fund on special occasions, the day succeeding.

POSSIBLE.—A friend from Dalles says, in attempting to enter that town he saw a pair of boots standing in the street and inadvertantly stepped on the toes, when a voice sang out, "Dog on it, keep off my corns!" when, much to his surprise our informant found that a man's legs were in the boots; but the body was wrapped in such a cloud of dust he couldn't see it. You see, at that time it was dusty at the Dalles, as it usually is. Moral—Come in out of the dust. If any body don't see the point in this affecting incident, it is simply because they don't read the Mountaineer.

SCENE ON WASHINGTON STREET.—Enter our Mr. X., and Mr. B., of Dalles. B—"How do you do, Mr. X?" X—"Thank you; where are you from?" B—"From the Dalles, sir. I happen to be one of the six fortunate men appointed by a mass meeting of citizens of the Dalles to wait on Mr. Newell to Portland, and see him safely off for Washington." X—"Oh! Ah! Yes!"

ARRIVAL.—We are glad to see on the list of passengers by the Sierra Nevada, the name of L. L. Pratt, Esq., of Salem, who went east to purchase machinery for the Woolen Factory at Oregon City, and suppose that his return indicates progress in that enterprise. We trust that it may prosper as much under his superintendence as the Salem Factory did for so many years, and have no doubt it will.

THE WIRES.—The telegraph lines are still working very badly. No connection beyond Yreka, and working very hard to there. At Lee's station in southern Oregon, snow is falling, and melting considerably as it falls, while the mountains are covered with a heavy fall. This promises to be one of the longest, severest, and most extensive storms of the season.

LOST HIS LIP.—At a very early hour yesterday morning, about 3 o'clock, Jack Sheppard got a dip in the face, during a hurly-gurly melee, which took his upper lip off, and otherwise spoiled his countenance. He started in search of a physician for the necessary "repairs," but lost the severed part, containing a portion of his moustache, and hence goes before the public with only half a lip.

CELESTIAL ROW.—The Celestial denizens of the upper part of this city broke out in a terrific row yesterday, in which parties numerously estimated on both sides, pro and con, waded in for a mass of some consequence. Several arrests of the moon-eyed gentry were made, and the circumstances will be investigated before Justice Gray to-day. Surely, Portland is becoming lively.

STREET ATTACKS BY NIGHT.—Three instances of freebootery on the streets of this city by night have been cited to us within a short time, and it is advisable for citizens who have business out at a late hour to go prepared for any emergency. The fact is established in our mind, beyond the cavil of a doubt, that the city is infested with thieves, and discretion is necessary for the preservation of life and property.

AT HER DOCK.—We are pleased to announce to our readers this morning that the steamship Sierra Nevada arrived safely at her dock in this city last evening. As it has been some time since a steamship visited our wharves those who may have any curiosity in the matter can be accommodated by a glance at the vessel to-day.

EUREKA THEATRE.—The Minstrel Troupe were well received at the opening of Eureka Theatre last night, and their jokes, songs, dances, and music, really enlivened the crowded audience in a happy manner. They perform again to-night and will produce some new and original features in the minstrel tone.

TO OUR COTEMPORARIES.—Mrs. M. Hackney is anxious to obtain some information of the whereabouts of her brother, Mr. Cyrus Smith, and will be thankful to the press of Idaho and California for any attention they may pay to her notice in another column.

AT A meeting of the board of directors of the War Eagle gold and silver mining company E. W. Tracy was elected President, H. F. Block Vice President, and Jas. W. Going Secretary.

SHARP ANSWERS.—At one of the hotels in Augusta, last Saturday, the landlord said to a boarder:

"See here, Mr. [illegible], the chambermaid found a lady's hair pin in your bed this morning, and it will not answer."

"Well, replied the boarder, I found a woman's hair in the butter this morning, but it did not prove you had a woman in it."

The two men looked at each other for about ten seconds, when each smiled and went his way, no doubt pondering over the peculiarities of circumstantial evidence.

Lord Tenterden had an inveterate habit of snubbing witnesses. One day he was presiding at a circuit dinner and asked a country magistrate if he would take venison. "Thank you, my lord; I am going to take boiled chicken."

"That, sir, is no answer to my question. I ask you again if you will take venison, and I will trouble you to say yes or no without further prevarication."

A [illegible].—Why [illegible] peared on the stage? Because he brought down the house when the audience was composed entirely of his deputies. The same gentleman says that the reason why Jenkins is unlike a dog's tail is, that Jenkins keeps a carriage and the tail keeps a waggin'.

A LITTLE daughter of the proprietor of a coal mine in Pennsylvania was inquisitive as to the nature of hell, whereupon her father represented it to be a large gulf of fire of the most prodigious extent. "Pa," said she, "couldn't you get the devil to buy coal of you?"

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to overestimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It presses upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS and GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, all attempts to find a solvent, until Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton, of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners, see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1856, page 7.

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operations is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color, hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
